

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This research has been a profound learning experience for me. Transitioning from the field of science to the realm of social science presented its own set of challenges. I had to acquire new knowledge and skills before I could even begin my research. My journey commenced after attending an online webinar where I was introduced to the concept of 'intercultural citizenship.' This topic resonated with me deeply, as a student who has constantly found myself outside of my native country, striving to adapt and thrive in unfamiliar environments. However, my experience differed from the webinar and previous studies that have explored this subject. Unlike the cases presented in the study, where those students were enrolled in an international program, I pursued my undergraduate studies in a Thai program, which significantly shaped my unique research journey.

First and foremost, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my esteemed advisor, Associate Professor Dr. Anchalee Wannaruk, for her invaluable patience and selfless guidance. Her extensive knowledge, positive attitude, unwavering belief in my abilities, and support have greatly influenced and inspired me. Thanks to her exceptional mentorship, I was able to select a thesis topic, as well as successfully complete my proposal defense, my thesis defense, and ultimately complete my thesis book. Despite the challenges posed by my ambitious goals, my advisor has consistently provided assistance in maintaining a balanced approach and keeping me on track towards achieving my objectives. I am truly grateful for her unwavering support throughout this process.

I would also like to extend my sincere gratitude to my committee members, Assistant Professor Dr. Denchai Prabjandee, Assistant Professor Dr. Adcharawan Buripakdi, and Dr. Butsakorn Yodkamlue. Throughout the process of proposing and defending my thesis, their extensive knowledge and valuable feedback have been truly inspiring and educational. I am incredibly grateful for their dedication, as they have invested considerable time and effort into guiding me through this research journey. Their unwavering support and encouragement have meant the world to me.

Additionally, I would like to express my heartfelt appreciation to the staff members at the School of Foreign Languages of the Institute of Social Technology, as well as the staff within the Suranaree University of Technology. Their invaluable contributions to my academic journey deserve my utmost gratitude, and the process would never have been smoother without their assistance.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my dear friends from different countries, academic years, and programs who have consistently supported and assisted me during my studies. I am especially grateful to my senior from Namibia, whom I affectionately refer to as 'sister.' She has been a constant source of support and guidance, ensuring that I remain dedicated to my academic journey. Her presence by my side has been invaluable. Their presence has truly made my educational experience meaningful and unforgettable. Although our time together was brief, the bond we have formed will last forever.

Lastly, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to my family. They have played many roles in my life, acting not only as my family members but also as friends, listeners, life consultants, and therapists. Their unwavering support and motivation have greatly boosted my confidence throughout my academic journey. Their selfless love, care, concern, and guidance have proven invaluable during challenging times, enhancing my morale and mindset and enabling me to successfully complete my studies while maintaining the stability of my mental health. I cannot overstate the significance of my family's indispensable contributions in helping me navigate this demanding academic path. Their unwavering encouragement and belief in my abilities serve as my primary driving force to continue moving forward.

During my academic journey, I have encountered various challenges that I now hold dear as cherished memories. This university has not only provided me with an education, but it has also become my home, granted me numerous opportunities, and introduced me to new families. However, the time has come for me to embark on a new path and pursue my dreams. As I move forward, I am prepared to face any obstacles that come my way with gratitude, confidence, responsibility, and a strong determination to achieve my goals.
