

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my advisor, Associate Professor Dr. Issra Pramoolsook for his invaluable support and guidance throughout my PhD journey. I read a lot of previous doctoral theses by his advisees and found too many sweet words they wrote for him, mentioning how excellent he was in his expertise, how nicely and gently he behaved in both academic and personal situations. Having similar experience, I must say those heartfelt expressions were not exaggerated. He should be a role model for early-career lecturers and researchers who struggle to commit to their professions.

I would like to extend my sincere thanks to Assistant Professor Dr. Arnon Chaisuriya for spending days explaining SPSS lessons to me so I could apply them to some parts of data analysis in my thesis.

I thank all committee members: Assistant Professor Dr. Wirada Amnuai, Assistant Professor Dr. Baramée Kheovichai, Assistant Professor Dr. Adcharawan Bupakdi, and Assistant Professor Dr. Arnon Chaisuriya. Their constructive comments and insightful recommendations helped improve the quality of my dissertation.

I would also like to thank all lecturers who taught me at Suranaree University of Technology. Their lessons on quantitative and qualitative studies, discourse analysis, trends and innovations in language learning and teaching, among others, were completely new to me since I had not done much research before. I gradually learnt more about the research world, although hard, but significantly let me improve my critical thinking and taught me to work with greater precision, paying close attention to even the smallest details, not only in research but in other aspects of life as well.

I thank all departments, faculties, and centers of Ho Chi Minh University of Banking for supporting me to balance my work and study. Without their policies to motivate lecturers to pursue higher qualifications, I may not be determined enough to study abroad, which I had never considered before.

Thanks to the beloved people around me for listening to and empathizing with me during this challenging journey.
